DARREN'S GREEN CORNER

Darren is a Year 4 pupil at a school in Johor Bahru. Every morning, he walks past an empty corner behind the school canteen. It is full of dry leaves and old boxes.

One day, Darren had an idea. "Why don't we turn this corner into a garden?" he asked his class teacher, Cikgu Farah. Cikgu Farah smiled. "That is a wonderful idea, Darren. But you will need some helpers."

The next Monday, Darren told his classmates about his plan. Nurul, Kavin and Siti Aisyah wanted to help. They met every Wednesday after school. First, they cleaned the corner and threw away the rubbish. Then, Kavin's grandfather gave them some old tyres. The children painted the tyres in bright colours and filled them with soil.

Nurul brought chilli seeds and Siti Aisyah brought some pandan plants from her mother's garden. Darren planted sunflower seeds because sunflowers were his favourite flowers. Every day, the children took turns to water the plants.

After three weeks, small green shoots appeared. But one morning, Darren saw that some of the young plants were broken. "Oh no! Who did this?" he cried. Then he saw a hen and her chicks walking around the garden. The friends laughed. They built a small fence with bamboo sticks to keep the chickens out.

Two months later, the corner looked beautiful. The sunflowers were taller than Darren! The canteen owner, Mak Cik Rosnah, even used their chillies to cook sambal. At the school assembly, the headmaster thanked the four friends. "You have shown us that a small idea can make a big difference," he said.
