Fireworks

During many holidays and events, fireworks are a common (0) _____, adding a colourful element to Malaysian culture. Whether it is Chinese New Year, Deepavali, or Eid Al-Fitr, fireworks are enjoyed (9) _____ individuals of all ages to enhance the cheerful atmosphere. Fireworks are often (10) _____ at pop-up stalls along the streets and in night markets with no proper control and regulation.

Although fireworks bring about fun and excitement, they also give (11) _____ to several public concerns. One of the primary dangers is the potential for accidents and injuries. The incorrect and careless (12) _____ of fireworks, whether by youths or inexperienced adults, can lead to severe burns, eye injuries, and even permanent disabilities. Furthermore, the loud noises produced by fireworks can cause distress to those who (13) _____ sensitive to loud noises, for instance, babies, young children, the elderly and pets.

To address these concerns and ensure public safety, several measures can be (14) _____. Firstly, there should be (15) _____ regulations on the sale and use of fireworks, including minimum age requirements and compulsory permits for selling them. Public awareness campaigns can also be conducted to (16) _____ individuals about the dangers of fireworks and promote alternative forms of celebration that do not pose risks to public safety and the environment. Moreover, communities can organise controlled fireworks displays conducted by trained licensed professionals, providing a safe and controlled environment for the general public to enjoy the show (17) _____ putting themselves or others in danger.

In conclusion, while fireworks have long been seen as an essential (18) _____ of Malaysian celebrations, their use comes with significant risks and drawbacks that cannot be ignored. To ensure the well-being of individuals and the environment, it is imperative to consider the arguments for their banning and implement strict measures to control their sale and use.

Questions 19 to 26

You are going to read an extract from an article. For questions 19 to 26, choose the correct answer (A, B, C, or D) and mark the correct letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet.

A recent report from the Malaysian Meteorological Department (MetMalaysia) indicates that the country has reached a warning level of extreme dry and hot weather conditions in the north of Peninsula Malaysia. The report states that the condition with temperature exceeding 35 degrees Celsius could be expected for three consecutive days starting August 13. The affected states are Perlis, Kedah and Penang.

Department Director of the Malaysian Ministry of Health, Datuk Dr Harliza Abdul Rashid said people should lessen outdoor activities during hot weather, wear lighter clothes and use umbrellas and hats to avoid direct exposure to the sun. "Scorching weather can cause the individual to feel lethargic and increase the risk for dehydration and heat stroke," she told Bernama, adding that people should drink at least eight glasses of water daily to stay cool and hydrated. The ministry has also issued a statement that people may feel increasingly heat stressed and this may affect their health and reduce economic activity.

More people are seeking shelter from the heat by staying at home or going to air-conditioned shopping malls. On the other hand, small businesses like hawkers and street vendors are left deserted. With fewer customers venturing out in the heat, these small businesses are facing a dire situation, teetering on the brink of closure.

This is almost the case for Fahim Anuar. Born into a family of hawkers, Fahim inherited the trade from his parents, who owned a small fried noodles stall in Sungai Petani. From the young age of 14, he learned the art of cooking from his mother and he has been cooking ever since. Fahim's dream is to feed as many people as he can by selling his food at an affordable price. He understands the poverty and hardships of making ends meet, growing up in a low-income household. Despite the rising cost of living, Fahim has kept his prices consistent since 2004 when he first started, staying true to his commitment to providing accessible meals to his community

Now, the extreme heatwave that sweeps across the nation has taken its toll on Fahim and his fellow hawkers, turning their workplace into a furnace. The heat drives customers away and leaves Fahim struggling to make ends meet. "There were days when the heat was so intense that I thought about giving up," Fahim recalls, wiping the sweat from his brow. "But I knew I mustn't let it defeat me." He stands tall behind his humble food cart in the street of Alor Setar, showing an example of determination. As a hawker, Fahim's livelihood revolves around serving up steaming plates of fried rice to hungry passersby.

Determined to rise above the heat, Fahim started experimenting with new recipes, adding refreshing twists to traditional dishes to beat the heat. "From icy cold drinks to chilled desserts, I found ways to keep my customers cool and satisfied," he explains. Once words spread, his stall started drawing crowds to sample his new creations. Most of his customers are locals, with a few tourists. While his signature fried rice still holds a special place in the hearts of loyal customers, his customers now prefer his coconut lime shake and sour plum coconut jelly. They said the menu is not only one of a kind, but also offers a better cooling effect on the body. Moreover, he also invested in a canopy to provide shade for his customers and installed fans to keep them cool.

Today, Fahim Anuar stands as a shining example of what can be achieved by refusing to surrender to life's challenges. "The heat may have tested me, but it also made me stronger," Fahim says, gazing out at the busy street scene before him, "and for that, I am grateful."

19 In paragraph 1, when is the extreme hot weather anticipated in the Northern Peninsula?

A From August 11 to August 13
B From August 13 to August 15
C From August 13 to August 16
D From August 10 to August 13

20 According to Datuk Dr Harliza, people can protect themselves from the heat by

A using sunscreen lotion.
B staying indoors at all times.
C putting on light-coloured clothes.
D consuming adequate amount of water.

21 In paragraph 3, what could happen to small businesses due to the heat?

A Start selling desserts.
B Increased walk-in customers.
C Move to air-conditioned locations.
D Risk of the business shutting down.

22 In paragraph 4, we know that Fahim

A comes from a poor family.
B learned to cook from his parents.
C has been selling food for 14 years.
D gives food for free as charity to his community.

23 What does the word 'it' in "But I knew I mustn't let it defeat me." refer to?

A The heat

B His sweat

C The business

D Another hawker

24 In paragraph 6, why do you think more customers go to Fahim's stall?

A He is a good investor.

B He does more promotions.

C He sells his signature fried rice.

D He is innovative and considerate.

25 What does the writer suggest about his customers' reaction to the change Fahim makes?

A They like the menu as it is unique.

B They feel the stall is more modern.

C They want more desserts that have a cooling effect.

D They have different opinions about his signature fried rice.

26 What does the writer want to highlight in the story?

A The way he was brought up.

B The struggle to be successful.

C The trust placed in his customers.

D The importance of being disciplined.

Part 5

Questions 33 to 40

Here are six teenagers sharing their experiences at haunted places. Read the texts below and answer the questions that follow.

Teens at Haunted Places

A – ALAN, 16
When I watched the movie Shadewoods (2023) with my cousin, I was a bit sceptical to hear that it was based on actual events at a theme park. However, this changed after my visit there earlier this year. My knees turned to jelly when the cleaning lady shared her personal experience about how the workers had to deal with shaken crew members who experienced ghostly incidents during filming.

B – BYRON, 17
Curiosity drove me and my friend to stay in this creepy 24-storey apartment. According to rumours, guests had been seeing a headless woman walking around the building. Last year, an actor who starred in his latest film, Nightmare Hotel almost quit during the production of the movie there after seeing the woman twice. Too bad we didn't come across any scary incidents there.

C – CONNIE, 18
I'm one of the many people who had strange encounters on one of Malaysia's most haunted highways. I remember one night, my family and I started to break into a cold sweat when we saw a driverless yellow Volkswagen overtaking us on this highway. The Parak Highway's hauntings are so widely known that a horror movie titled Parak: The Devil's Route was produced in 2011.

D – DENVER, 15
Two years ago, my friends and I stayed in the infamous seafront villa known as The Echoing Waves, where a man was said to have taken the lives of his whole family members. All six of us cramped up in a room as it was recommended to stay together when visiting this place. Still, we sensed as though someone was watching us. It felt so real!

E – ELLIE, 14
There was a place in my hometown that was used as a military office building during the Japanese Occupation. People were said to have been tortured to their deaths there. I remember having goosebumps when I drove past this scary-looking building. I heard that there had even been reports of sudden attacks of hysteria taking over visitors at the site.

F – FIONA, 16
Last year, I visited Gloomhaven Mansion, a 50-year-old mansion, which was said to be the site used by a well-known witch doctor. Some locals claimed to have heard unexplained growling sounds coming from the surrounding areas of the building. They believe they're the sounds of his evil spirits. My blood ran cold from hearing the stories, so I followed their advice not to stay within the area past sundown.
